

Commissions

The creation of a commissioned work of art is unique. It combines the talents and insights of the artist with the visions and goals of the customer. There will never be another work created just the same from this combination of talents. This uniqueness will make the work more valuable overtime, not only for the original commissioner, but for all collectors of fine art.

Commissioning a work is easy.
Simply call, mail or email your ideas.
Delivery times will depend upon the type of work, the size and amount of detail in each piece. There is sometimes a waiting list, but we will make every attempt to meet a “special” deadline for gift giving.

Prices include shipping and insurance.

Use these prices as a guide. Other sizes are available. For more than one subject in a painting add 25% to the base price for each additional subject. A minimum deposit of 50% is required before any work begins. The balance can be paid any time after the work begins and is due in full upon the completion of the work and before delivery. Please send or email the best photographs you have available. Print photos will be returned. Include descriptive information about yourself and the personality of your animal.

On larger commissions, (over $500) the client will be kept up to date on the progress of the work through sketches and progress photographs.

A photograph of the finished work will be sent to the client for a final critique and approval before shipment.

Payment may be made by check, money order or PayPal.

Framing and matting are also available.
